Cheerful Christmas Notes For Holiday Motorists

HARRISBURG (AP)—Cheerful Christmas notes for holiday motorists on Pennsylvania highways came today from two agencies in a position to facilitate such travel.

The Pennsylvania Department of Transportation (PennDOT) announced that maintenance work would be restricted to secondary and rural roads, where travel is mostly local, except in emergencies on main arteries. Hauling permits will be suspended during the holiday period for house trailers and other "wide load" vehicles. The designated period is from sunset Dec. 22 to sunrise Dec. 31.

Red Mars Probe Sends Signals Only 20 Seconds

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union reported Sunday that the capsule which parachuted from its Mars 3 probe and landed on the surface of the red planet transmitted television signals for only 20 seconds.

The disclosure was made in a long analysis of the missions of space probes Mars 2 and Mars 3. The analysis covered a full page in Sunday's Pravda and was distributed to provincial newspapers by the Soviet news agency Tass.

On Dec. 7, when Tass initially announced the Dec. 2 soft landing of a capsule ejected from Mars 3 it said only that the "video signals...were brief and suddenly discontinued."

Sunday's summary said the picture, which lasted about 20 seconds, was too blurred to make out any details.

"It is too early to say what stopped the transmission," the article said. "It could be due to the local peculiarities of the landing area, which are absolutely unknown, or to the strong dust storm taking place at the time. Probably the dust storm covered with a 'film' the surface details during the panoramic photography of the area."

Western scientists also speculated at the time of the soft landing that the television signals were interrupted by the dust storm, which has swirled on the surface of the planet since September.

The storm has also prevented an American probe, Mariner 9, from getting good surface pictures of Mars. The U.S. craft has been orbiting the planet since Nov. 13 trying to peer through the dust.

National Deficit Expected To Exceed $26 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 1971 Congress made a relatively small, $1.2-billion cut in President Nixon's appropriations requests but it took other actions which will cause an increase in the budget deficit.

The President forecast an $11.6-billion deficit in the unified budget for fiscal 1972, the current year, when he submitted his budget last January.

It now appears the deficit will exceed $26 billion when the year ends next June 30.

This sharp increase is expected to result principally from a huge drop in the revenues estimated by Nixon 11 months ago.

This drop is caused in part by the failure of the economy to recover as fast as he expected, and in part by tax cuts which he

LONDON (AP)—The Nixon-Heath meeting starting Monday in Bermuda will carry forward a 30-year tradition of summit talks between American and British leaders. This is President Nixon's seventh summit session with the British.

Most of 34 such meetings have been friendly and fruitful but a few ended in acrimony.

The tradition began Aug. 14, 1941, aboard a British battleship and an American cruiser off Maine. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill produced the Atlantic Charter which set forth their aims for a better future for mankind.

President Woodrow Wilson had paid a brief courtesy visit to Britain in 1918 on his way to the Versailles peace conference, but had no substantive talks with Prime Minister David Lloyd George.

The summit talks over the years have been supplemented by numerous telephone conversations. The London-Washington "hot line" telephone was installed during the Roosevelt-Churchill era. Despite his relatively brief term of office, President John F. Kennedy had eight meetings with Prime Minister Harold MacMillan.

The most acrimonious of the 34 summits was the MacMillan-Kennedy encounter in Nassau in December 1962, although Harold Wilson had some tough bargaining sessions in his six meetings with Lyndon B. Johnson.

On his return from Nassau, MacMillan told the House of Commons there had been some "plain talking" between him and Kennedy—a diplomatic way of describing a row.

The issue was the abrupt cancellation by the American administration of the Skybolt missile program because of operational failure and soaring costs. Britain had scrapped its own Blue Streak missile in favor of Skybolt, which was to prolong the effective life of the V-bombers of the Royal Air Force by five years.

The British were hardly mollified by Kennedy's offer to provide Polaris missiles instead—but MacMillan accepted them.

Wilson had six meetings with Johnson, all in Washington. Although he frequently complained of what he felt was Johnson's low opinion of Britain's world position, Wilson seemed to have reached a warm personal relationship with Johnson.

But the American president often was incensed over Wilson's steady refusal to back America's Vietnam policy to the hilt—his refusal to send at least a token British force to battle along with the Australians and New Zealanders.

Nixon paid his first visit to Britain as President Feb. 24-26, 1969, a whirlwind, three-day affair during a five-nation tour.

The President lunched with Queen Elizabeth II, had an informal but lengthy exchange of ideas with the entire British cabinet and became the first American president in office to attend a session of the British Parliament.

Pakistan President Plans To Resign On Monday

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP)—President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan will resign as soon as he hands over power to "the representatives of the people" on Monday, a spokesman announced Sunday.

Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, deputy prime minister and foreign minister, is due here Monday from New York to form a new government.

During a stopover in Rome Sunday, Bhutto told reporters President Nixon had reaffirmed U.S. support for the principle of Pakistan's unity and sovereignty.

Gen. Yahya Khan, 54, took power March 25, 1969, from president Mohammed Ayub Khan.

Bhutto, leader of the largest single party in West Pakistan, seemed certain to play a major role in the new government.

Bhutto was arrested under the Ayub regime and accused of inciting Pakistanis to violence. Violent demonstrations forced Ayub to free him.

In an announcement two weeks ago, Yahya had designated Nurul Amin, an East Pakistani politician, as the prime minister-designate and Bhutto as the deputy prime minister-designate and foreign minister-designate in a new government that was to take office early next year.

But that announcement was made before Indian troops captured East Pakistan this past week.

Amin, a 77-year-old right wing East Pakistani politician, said in an interview Saturday that he could not accept the appointment in view of developments.

Amin was a political foe of Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, leader of the East Pakistan-based Awami League banned by Yahya in March on charges of plotting to break up Pakistan. Mujib was jailed on charges of treason and is believed still held in West Pakistan.

Four Tortured, Killed At Bangla Desh Rally

DACCA (AP)—Each time a soldier lunged forward to stab his bayonet into one of the four tortured men, the hiss of excitement could be heard from the crowd.

There was almost silence when the soldier turned and twisted the bayonet.

When he stepped back, withdrew his rifle and raised the gleaming steel high, dripping blood, the crowd responded with a guttural cry of "Joi Bangla"—Victory to Bangla Desh.

Some 5,000 men and children witnessed the merciless, blood-curdling execution of four young men at the end of Bangla Desh's first public rally after the surrender of Pakistan's troops. None of the leaders of the Mukti Bahini, the military force of Bangla Desh, present at the rally could explain specific charges against the four men.

"They are Razakars," said one, referring to the generally hated local militiamen who are known to have committed widespread murder, rape and looting under Pakistani command through the past nine bloody months.

According to Moslem custom, only men gathered for the rally beside the stadium. Mukti Bahini soldiers, dressed in an array of colorful uniforms, heavily armed and some wearing World War I British steel helmets, guarded the approaches to the speakers' stand.

The four tied men were dumped from a jeep beside the rostrum and while speakers harangued the crowd in the staccato Bengali language, no one paid any attention to the Razakars.

It was during the prayers that the ordeal for the men began.

(c) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON—The International Monetary Fund gave formal legal sanction Sunday to the new pattern of exchange rates among the world's leading currencies agreed upon Saturday night here.

The new exchange rates will mean an effective devaluation of the U.S. dollar against all the leading currencies, though by differing amounts. This was the U.S. objective.

Adjusted for the varying new exchange rates, and for U.S. trade with each of the countries, Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally said Saturday night the effective devaluation of the dollar will be 12 per cent. This does not count trade with Canada, whose currency will continue to "float."

Sunday's decision by the executive directors of the International Monetary Fund also made legal the agreement Saturday night among the "group of 10" leading industrial countries to permit currencies to fluctuate 2 1/2 per cent above and below the new par values, instead of the old rule of 1 per cent.

Saturday night's agreement among finance ministers was hailed by President Nixon as "the most significant monetary agreement in the history of the world." It was the first time a group of nations had jointly agreed upon new exchange rates—a sensitive matter for any country.

The agreement included a U.S. contribution in the form of a proposed increase in the official price of gold from $35 to $38 an ounce. This is a formal devaluation of the dollar by 8.57 per cent looked at from the point of view of a U.S. citizen buying foreign currencies, or 7.89 per cent from the point of view of a foreigner buying dollars. Either figure is correct.

The U.S. also agreed to remove the 10 per cent import surcharge, imposed last Aug. 15, this week.

The new exchange rate for the dollar against the major currencies will come into effect as soon as foreign exchange trading resumes, even though congress has not yet authorized the technical increase in the price of gold.

This is what the IMF authorized Sunday. It said, in effect, that working exchange rates—those that matter to traders, tourists and investors—need not be notified to the monetary fund as formal "par values". For the time being, the new rates will be known as "central rates" which amounts in practice to just a legalism.

As part of Saturday night's agreement, the U.S. administration said it would ask Congress to authorize the formal increase in the gold price, but only after certain unspecified trade concessions were won from Japan, Canada and the European Common Market. Meanwhile, actual exchange rates will be fixed as if the gold price were already increased.

As examples—with the new rates compared with those prevailing before last May when the recent monetary turmoil began—the Japanese yen will cost 16.9 per cent more, the West German mark 13.6 per cent more, the French franc and the British pound 8.6 per cent more and the Italian lire 7.5 per cent more.

Put another way, a dollar will now buy only 308 yen instead of

Governments Welcome Monetary Agreement

LONDON (AP)—Governments around the world generally welcomed the Washington monetary agreement Sunday as a fair compromise for settling the worst international currency crisis since World War II.

They also regarded it as a likely boon for world trade, ending the last four months of uncertainty and averting the threat of the kind of tariff war that helped touch off the Depression of the 1930s.

But many governments, moving cautiously, put off until Monday at the earliest the disclosure of new fixed exchange rates for their money. Britain, West Germany and Japan were among the few to announce new rates.

Most foreign exchange markets were ordered to remain closed Monday to ease preparations for coping with the new rates.

The key element of the Washington package raised the official price of gold from $35 to $38 an ounce, in effect a devaluation of the U.S. dollar of 8.57 per cent, based on the old price of gold. Some governments chose to interpret the dollar devaluation as it instead on the new price of gold.

But there was general agreement that the package, however interpreted, returned stability to the international monetary trade systems for the first time since Aug. 15.

On Aug. 15 President Nixon temporarily suspended the link between the dollar and gold, the backbone of the international monetary system for 37 years. The move forced currencies to float without fixed exchange rates.

Under the floating system, international firms faced investment and contract difficulties because uncertain exchange rates clouded price and cost forecasts.

In addition there was always the danger that governments would act individually to protect their own interests, with a series of competitive devaluations, tariffs and quotas that could have ended in a trade war.

The Washington agreement averted that danger, not only by fixing a framework for new exchange rates, but also by promising removal of the U.S. 10 per cent import surcharge. In time the surcharge could have invited retaliation by America's overseas trading partners.

Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, Anthony Barber, called the Washington package "equitable and realistic."

"Fair for all," said Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing of France.

Conrad Ahlers, the West German government spokesman, said the Washington settlement forms "a good basis for the de-

Youngsville Mayor Names New Borough Police Chief

Youngsville Mayor Ernest McGraw announced this weekend the appointment of a new borough police chief. He is Larry Weidenboerner, 28, of Benzinger Twp., near St. Marys, Pa.

Weidenboerner, a native of Emporium, succeeds Rex Agnew who retired last June after 21 years service and some 10 years as borough police chief.

Richard Crull had been acting police chief in the meantime. The new chief has extensive training and seven years' experience in police work. He became a deputy sheriff in Cameron County in 1964, joined the Emporium police force in 1965, spent a year in Pittsburgh as an enforcement agent of the State Liquor Control board and then joined the Benzinger Twp. police force.

He remained there until last spring when upon the death of his father he took over operation of the latter's independent insurance agency.

Weidenboerner says he prefers police work however, and is especially interested in aspects of law enforcement involving helping young people. His formal professional education totals more than 360 hours and includes state police courses in the motor vehicle code, criminal law and processes, FBI courses in identification of dangerous drugs and regulations concerning them and specialized firearm training. He has also had state Department of Health training in emergency ambulance work, advanced first aid training at the Andrew Kaul Memorial Hospital at St. Marys and has taken courses in intoxication testing, traffic safety, arson and burglary through the state Department of Traffic Safety, the Liquor Control Board, state police and the state Department of Public Instruction.

He is a member of the Benzinger chapter, lodge 96, of the Fraternal Order of Police, was a Little League manager, has been chairman of the Cameron County Cancer Society, county chairman of the Young Republicans and is a member of the Keystone Airport Authority. He will supervise two patrolmen, both of whom joined the borough police force within the past year with no previous experience.

Weidenboerner has been employed for an initial period of six months. He is married and his wife is a registered nurse. He will assume his new duties today.

velopment of world trade."
Japanese foreign minister Takeo Fukuda called the agreement "The greatest economic shock" for Japan since World War II. Japan will revalue its currency by more than any other nation under the settlement terms, forcing up its prices further in competitive markets and probably losing more than its commercial rivals.
But Prime Minister Eisaku Sato said the terms were "not unreasonable" in order to regain stability.
There were these specific announcements on new exchange rates:
Britain—The pound will be pegged at $2.6057, compared to the old parity of $2.40. In the floating markets the pound had already moved up to $2.5293.
West Germany—the dollar will be set at 3.223 marks, compared to the last floating rate of 3.2575 marks and the old parity of 3.66 marks. The change reflects both a new relationship with the dollar and a further revaluation against other currencies totaling 13.57 per cent.
Japan—Like West Germany, the Japanese had one of the world's strongest currencies. It too will be revalued both against the dollar and other monetary units. The Japanese estimated their revaluation at 16.88 per cent. The new fixed rate for the dollar in Tokyo is 308 yen, compared to 320.58 yen.
on the floating market Saturday and the old parity of 360 yen.
France—Like the British, the French will adopt a new exchange rate reflecting only the dollar devaluation. An announcement on the new rate is expected by the Bank of France Monday.
Switzerland—Official sources withheld all comment on new exchange rates and other matters until a cabinet meeting Monday. Norway, Sweden and Denmark also deferred announcements on new exchange rates, probably until Monday.
Austria welcomed the Washington agreement "in principle," but said it was awaiting parity decisions by the ten nations that were present before taking its own.
In Brussels, officials of the European Common Market said they expected trade talks with the United States to open there Tuesday on that portion of the Washington settlement package.
In Moscow the official Soviet news agency Tass said the Washington agreement reached "a low in U.S. prestige" and reflected "a deep crisis in the entire pattern of American economy and trade."
Italy was awaiting the return of Finance Minister Mario Ferrari Aggradi from Washington before announcing a new dollar exchange rate for the lire. The 360 and 581 lire instead of 625. It will take $2.60 to buy a pound instead of $2.40.

These changes will make U.S. exports cheaper and U.S. imports more expensive and thus should contribute to an improvement in the badly deteriorating balance of trade, which will show a deficit this year for the first time since 1893. By helping the balance of trade, and some other international transactions, the effective devaluation of the dollar is bound to improve the over-all balance of payments, though no one knows exactly how much.
When foreign exchange markets reopen, currencies will be held within their new and somewhat wider, margins above and below the new effective par values by interventions of foreign central banks. As was the case before the new agreement, the U.S. Federal Reserve System will not intervene.

Also, the dollar will continue to be "unconvertible." This means that the U.S. will continue Nixon's suspension, announced Aug. 15, of buying and selling gold in transactions with foreign central banks. Foreign central banks acquiring dollars will not be able to convert them into gold or any other monetary reserve asset.

Unable to raise their tied hands to proper praying positions, they were abused by a few soldiers. One pulled their hair, and they were kicked and cracked on the head with rifle butts.
A tall slim man in a fancy black uniform and fur cap selected one prisoner, positioned himself carefully over him and then delivered cracking karate blows at the head or genitals of his victim. He dragged up another prisoner and sent him flying into the crowd with a knee into the abdomen.
Then the main speaker

The first soldier leaned back, aimed his bayonet and stabbed the man who had been pointed out.
Then other soldiers joined in, all performing the same movements—one step back, leaning forward, one step back, leaning forward, one step forward and then stabbing.

Three Mishaps Investigated In Borough

Warren borough police investigated three auto accidents over the weekend and said no injuries were reported but total property damage amounted to $765.
Two accidents occurred Saturday the first at 2:45 p.m. was a three-car affair at the intersection of Pennsylvania ave. west and Market st. All three cars were facing east on Pennsylvania ave. west with a car operated by Harry M. King, 66, of 104 Eddy st., Warren, waiting to make a left turn onto Market st. The car behind, operated by Charles E. Reddinger, 58, of 2 1/2 S. State st., North Warren, attempted to pass another car on the right that was operated by Richard H. White, 22, of 1202 Madison ave., Warren, and struck it in the right front, pushing it into the King vehicle.
The second incident occurred at 3:15 p.m. Saturday on Third ave. at the East st. intersection when a car operated by Thomas A. Raleigh, 21, of 504 East st., that was traveling west on Third ave. attempted to turn right onto East st. and went over the curb and struck a large tree. Damage was set at $175. Police said the road was icy at the time.

year than the President recommended.
—A 10 per cent Social Security increase which went $1.4 billion beyond Nixon's request.
However, the impact on the budget of these actions was largely offset by inactions on other Presidential programs in the 1971 session.
The most important of these was the failure to pass any of his general or special revenue-sharing plans. Another was the deferral of action on Nixon's proposals to liberalize welfare benefits.
The Senate-House Committee estimated the various inactions had the net effect of saving about $3.12 billion in fiscal 1972 spending.
Thus, the over-all impact on the budget of what Congress did and didn't do in 1971 was to raise the deficit by about $427 million.
The 1971 session voted to appropriate a total of $250.6 billion, a record. The $1.2 billion cut below Nixon's request was one of the smallest in many years.
The total included $96.8 billion of permanent appropriations which did not have to be acted on in the individual bills. The permanent include such things as $21.1 billion of interest on the public debt, a record high for this item, and more than $35 billion of Social Security outlays financed by a trust fund.

Finalists Named In VFW Run Annual Contest

Three finalists have been named in the 25th annual Voice of Democracy contest sponsored by Post 631, Veterans of Foreign Wars of Warren, said Michael V. Lindvay, chairman of this year's contest.
Students from two area high schools participated this year, Warren Area High and Eisenhower High.
First place winner is Mary Patricia Donnelly, daughter of Mr. R. G. Donnelly of 306 Poplar st., Warren, a WAHS student. Second place winner is Diane L. Kerner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kerner of 73 Mason's Mobile Court, WAHS, and third place winner is Sue Bauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bauer, RD 3, Sugar Grove, Eisenhower student.
Theme for this year's contest was "My Responsibility to Freedom." Winning speeches will be entered in the 19th district and the district finals will compete in the state competitions from where the winners will go on to the national contest.
Judges for this year's contest were: Roy Brant, assistant professor of political science; Dr. David Russo, associate professor of modern languages; and Frank Johnson, administrative director, all of Warren campus, Edinboro State College.
Assistant chairman for the contest was Mrs. Michael V. Lindvay, past president of the ladies auxiliary, Post 631.

Pakistan

ghar Khan, retired chief of Pakistan's air force who joined in the move to oust the president, said Yahya should be tried for abrogating the 1962 constitution when he took power in 1969, for policies leading to the loss of East Pakistan and for conducting the war in a manner "in which he humiliated the army."
Bhutto, on a one-night stop-over in Rome on his way to Karachi, said he received President Nixon's assurances during a private talk in Washington. "Pakistan is one single thing," Bhutto said. "The nation's unity must be safeguarded. India has forcefully occupied Pakistani territories and a lasting peace could not be achieved if New Delhi fails to give back what it conquered with its tanks."
Corry Man Dies
At McInnes Steel
CORRY —Dennis E. Hebets, 28, of RD1, Grand Valley, was killed instantly at 10 p.m. Friday, Dec. 17, 1971 at the McInnes Steel Co., according to James St. George, deputy coroner for Erie County.
Hebets, was apparently struck by a disc from a boring machine that flew out of the machine and knocked him 20 feet against another machine, the report said. He is survived by his wife, Ruth and six children.

Accident Checked

State police at the Warren substation investigated a two-car accident that occurred at 4:25 p.m. Saturday on Cobham Park rd. They reported property damage at $850, but said no injuries occurred.
A car operated by Gail M. Smith, 43, of 105 Dartmouth st., Warren, was traveling south when it crossed over the highway on a curve and struck a northbound car operated by Harry W. Goodmote, 73, of Main st., Ludlow. The road was icy at the time, police said.

Boro Police Check Larceny Incidents

Warren borough police apprehended two juveniles allegedly involved in stealing Christmas decorations light bulbs from a Walnut st. address at 4:45 p.m. Sunday. Their parents will make restitution.
In another case, police reported the theft of an Adventure trailer with two Ski-Doo snowmobiles mounted on it from Richard Caldwell at 211 East st., Warren, sometime between 1 a.m. and 8 a.m. Sunday. Value of the snowmobiles and trailer was set at $3,100.
Police also said that a total of 124 light bulbs have been stolen from Christmas decorations since Dec. 6. They are continuing their investigations into each of these cases.

OVER $500 WORTH IN FIVE MINUTES

Mrs. Walter Gray of 171 Yankee Bush rd. was the lucky winner of a timely prize offered by the Starbuck Volunteer Fire Department. She is pictured above with her husband, with two carts containing $541 in meats. It took her only five minutes at Loblaw's to fill the two carts with enough meat to last through the winter. Mullen Against Subsidized Abortions

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—State Rep. Martin P. Mullen, D-Phila. has disclosed he plans to fight the state Welfare Department's policy of subsidizing abortions.

Mullen told the Philadelphia Bulletin Saturday his first battle would come at pre-budget hearings for the department as scheduled for Monday and Tuesday. There, he said, he would question welfare officials about reports that the department has subsidized about 2,000 therapeutic abortions since 1967.

A Welfare Department spokesman confirmed Saturday that the department makes $50 payments toward the costs of an abortion provided a team of physicians certify the operation is necessary to preserve the physical or mental health of the mother.

If the reports are true, Mullen said, he would try to stop the subsidizing of abortions because the policy would be in "clear violation of state law against abortions."

The state's 1860 abortion law, which makes it a crime to perform an "unlawful abortion" is under attack in the courts. Bills have been introduced in the Legislature to clarify the law.

A bill by Mullen would outlaw abortion for any reason. Another measure would liberalize the law to allow abortions in accredited hospitals with the approval of physicians and the mother.

Mullen said he was still waiting for Gov. Shapp to appoint an all-woman commission to study the abortion law, but he added that "we're not going to wait forever" before pushing his own bill to prohibit abortions.

Need Representation

Has the U.S. Forest Service let the U.S. Park Service pull the rug from under its feet? Perhaps so. For it appears that while the Forest Service has been directing its attention to growing trees, providing grasslands for grazing, and courting mining interests, the Park Service, responding to the upsurge in the public's demand for greater recreational opportunities, has established itself on the top of the totem pole when it comes to federal funding.

This is evident in the fact that President Nixon and the administration favors giving 60 per cent of the funds available to an assortment of federal agencies from the Land and Water Conservation Fund to the Park Service, leaving the other agencies in the position of getting only token amounts from the remaining 40 per cent.

It is also evident in the number of bills being introduced in Congress to establish a rash of recreational hot spots, all under the auspices of the U.S. Park Service. This, in spite of the fact that the Forest Service already owns over 187 million acres of land, most of it with outstanding recreation potential.

So it is understandable that the President's advisory council on executive reorganization, recognizing the fact that the Forest Service's role should be one of land management rather than a crop-growing agency, should be transferred from the Department of Agriculture to the Department of Natural Resources.

To the credit of our local forest staff is the fact that they have "come alive" to the potential of the lands under their control over the past few years and have been working toward a better balanced program in a diligent manner. Recreation, which was a no-no word in the past, is acceptable conversation in their offices today.

The fact remains however, that so long as they have to take the jackal's share of the federal funding available to them in the administration's 40 per cent and are held to closer use of the LWC funds than are the states, there just isn't much they can do toward providing the recreational facilities we so badly need.

What the Forest Service needs to regain parity with the Park Service and be in a position to better serve our community needs is congressional representation. And the only way they will get it is for Warren area residents and the whole of Kinzua Country, to do some hollering. Or why not make it an out and out yell?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Behind the bombs and bombast of the Indian-Pakistan war, a side struggle to influence U.S. policy has been raging in the backrooms of Washington, New Delhi and Islamabad.

The chief antagonists have been the U.S. ambassadors in the opposing capitals, Ken Keating in New Delhi and Joe Farland in Islamabad, who have been bombarding Washington with urgent, secret messages.

From New Delhi, the white-haired, pink-faced, 71-year-old Keating, who keeps fit by rolling around the floor on his tummy, has pleaded with his superiors in Washington not to alienate populous, strategic India.

From Islamabad, the amiable, 57-year-old Farland, who has become an evening drinking buddy of Pakistan's President Yahya Khan, has urged Washington to stand by our Pakistani ally.

Keating has contended that Pakistan triggered the conflict by massacring Bengalis and driving them by the millions into India. The huge human flood was more than India, already overburdened with people, could absorb.

He has argued that the U.S. should follow its historic policy of supporting people who want their independence. The Bengalis, clearly, want to shake off their Pakistani shackles, and the advancing Indian troops have been greeted in East Pakistan truly as liberators.

SECRET VISITS

Keating paid secret calls upon India's Foreign Minister Swaran Singh and Defense Minister K. B. Lall, who assured him that India wished to stop the human slaughter, pull her troops back across the border and turn East Pakistan over to the Bengalis who inhabit it.

The American Ambassador fully endorsed their statements, calling Lall's remarks "reasonable and statesmanlike." He also sharply disputes some of the anti-India reports coming out of Washington.

In defense of the Pakistanis, Farland pointed out that the Indian Army had invaded Pakistani territory, not the other way around.

He told of a "strictly informal" visit at President Yahya's residence on December 8. "The man just wanted to talk," Farland reported in a secret message to Washington.

He quoted the Pakistani President as saying "it was not patent" that India plans to hold the line in West Pakistan while it dismembers East Pakistan. He promised that the Pakistani Army would fight "to the last Muslim, for not only their country but their faith is in jeopardy."

Yahya added that the Indian attack not only would bring death to thousands of Pakistani soldiers but would cost the lives of "not thousands but millions of people." The "holocaust," he predicted, would be followed by "the stark specter of famine."

The professionals at the State Department, in strict privacy of course, agreed with Keating. They considered President Nixon's pro-Pakistan "tilt" to be dangerous folly, which could only tighten the Soviet hold on India.

BLUNT BRITISH ADVICE

The British, who often exchange situation reports with the U.S., also agreed. The American Embassy in London, in a secret dispatch to the State Department advised:

"HMG (Her Majesty's Government) believes USG (U.S. Government) has made tactical error in taking public stance critical of Indians. In (the British) view, both sides are at fault, and it is essentially a sterile exercise at this juncture to attempt to apportion greater blame to one side or the other."

President Nixon, however, flatly rejected this advice. The word was passed by his foreign policy adviser, Henry Kissinger, to the men in charge of carrying out U.S. foreign policy.

They have held secret sessions almost daily in the fabled Situation Room in the basement of the White House. At the December 8 meeting, for example, Kissinger repeated the same blunt instructions he had given earlier.

"The President does not want to be even handed," he said. "The President believes that India is the attacker. We are trying to get across the idea that India has jeopardized relations with the United States."

COLD-BLOODED LADY

Kissinger pooh-poohed the argument that a pro-Pakistan policy would drive India into Soviet arms. "The lady," he said, referring to India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, "is cold blooded and tough and will not turn India into a Soviet satellite merely because of pique."

Intelligence reports from New Delhi, however, now report that Prime Minister Gandhi has instructed her Secretariat to review India's policy toward the U.S. She is said to be irritated with the U.S. stand and is quoted as saying Washington has "bungled."

Determined to retaliate, she has ordered the Secretariat to take steps to reduce American influence in India. This is expected to come in the form of reduced U.S. and increased Soviet missions in India.

Footnote: There is at least one straw in the wind, which indicates India doesn't want to antagonize the U.S. too far. Krishna Menon, the former Indian Defense Minister and America hater, offered his services at the United Nations to Prime Minister Gandhi "in view of his long experience and intimate knowledge of the UN organization." Keating reported from New Delhi that Menon's offer was not accepted. Recalling that Menon is "famous for his venomous anti-American outbursts," Keating suggested Mrs. Gandhi hasn't yet resigned herself to a "continuing downward trend in Indian-American relations."

THINK IT OVER!

Don't forget the less fortunate this holiday season.

Cards Tell All

WASHINGTON — Christmas cards reveal a great deal more about America than one would like to admit. They show as well as anything what a restless society we've become.

The other day, my wife was opening cards and she was puzzled by one from Hal and Virginia Lark.

"I thought Hal's wife's name was Frieda," she said.

"So did I. Maybe she changed it to Virginia," I suggested.

The next day the mystery was cleared up when we received a Christmas card from the McDowalls.

"We don't know any McDowalls," my wife said.

"We must, or they wouldn't have sent us a Christmas card."

"The handwriting looks familiar," my wife said. "As a matter of fact, it looks exactly like Frieda Lark's signature."

"How could it be Frieda Lark's signature if it was sent by the McDowalls?"

"Maybe Frieda is no longer a Lark!" my wife exclaimed.

"Then that means Hal married a girl named Virginia and Frieda married a guy named McDowall."

"I wish people would tell me these things before I send out my Christmas cards."

She opened a few other cards and then came to one which she studied carefully. "This photograph is very peculiar. I could swear it was Myrna Tuttle, but the card says it's from the Lindstroms."

I looked at it. "It sure does seem to be Myrna. Wait a minute. Aren't those Myrna's twins on the sailboat?"

"Yes," my wife said. "But I don't recognize the man at the wheel."

"That's probably Lindstrom," I said.

JIM BISHOP: REPORTER

Good Will Toward -- ??

It is with trepidation that I report that some Americans who are part of AOH aren't trying. AOH, naturally, is the Age of Hostility. It is impossible to be chronically mean unless the citizen is willing to work at it. Stand in front of a mirror. Pull the corners of that mouth down. Try to press the eyebrows together. See that fearsome frown?

Good. You're on your way. As always, the only disciplined members of AOH are the young. They work at it. Most eighth graders can explain that anything which is not sensorially pleasurable is bad—like work, baths, clean clothes, respect, character, honor. Baddos, all of them. If you want to belong to AOH, read the following primer:

PARENTS. Don't take a stand on anything until they commit themselves. Then let them have it between the eyes. When they address you, stare vacantly at a wall and shift from one foot to another. When they have finished, think of a snappy retort which will send both of them up the wall you've been staring at.

CHILDREN. When they speak, tell them to be quiet. Call them stupid. When they come home with good schoolmarks, pat them on the head as one would a friendly dog. Keep saying "You're not going out dressed like that," when you know for sure they are.

WAITERS. Never peek at a menu until the waiter has his pencil ready. Then take your time. Never look up at him (or her) because they aren't people. Don't say please. Order the waiter to take the steak back into the kitchen. Tell him the food is lousy and the service stinks. Do you don't want to disappoint a waiter, do you?

DRIVING. Never make a left turn unless you're in a right-hand lane. If someone cuts out to pass you, take a look at that truck bearing down on him and step on the accelerator. Never use a directional signal until you are halfway into your turn. While standing at a red light, glare at everybody.

SHOPPING. Elbow your supermarket cart into the front of the line. Block a line. Bring a can of tomatoes back because the top is dented. Feel the bread. Feel the vegetables. On your way out, hold the door open until you see an old lady behind you. At the last second, let it go. It will teach her to be alert and she can get her nose fixed under Medicare.

WITNESS. If someone is hit by a car, knifed by a mugger, or collapses with a heart attack, do not stop. Keep going and explain how it's none of your business. When walking, watch for any man with a white cane. Yell "Green light! Green light!" only when it is red. His last words will be, "Thank you."

BOOKS. Borrow, never lend. Read, do not return. If it comes from a public library, dog-eat it: the book isn't yours. Mark the juicy passages with ink. Tear the last page out, then no one will ever know how the story comes out.

FRIENDS. Test them. Phone at 7:30 and say "We're coming over." Ask for a hundred till payday. Stay until you're bored with their writhing. No matter what they offer to drink, say: "Is that the best you can do?" Listen carefully to their problems with their children, so you can tell them how to bring kids up. They'll love you for it.

BOSS. Give him the rich smile, then sabotage everything he does. You and he know that he's ahead of you only by sheer luck. Do something that will hurt business, put on your sanctimonious face and say: "Why, I thought you told me..."

WIFE. Tell her to get off your back. Explain how you cannot get excited over hair curlers, lumpy legs and feet which are melting toward the chin. Give her a little speech about that crazy chick in the office who is making a play for you. "Such a silly child," tell her. "Barely out of high school."

HUSBAND. Give him the large needle. Tell him you're sick of looking at four walls. He may put you through the first one. Make fun of his paunch. Keep telling him about the life guard you could have married, who is now vice president of General Motors. If he gets a spot on his clothes, call him a slob. Ask him if he ever does anything but sleep.

POLITICS. You don't have to understand the subject. Just take a stand and jam it down everybody's throat. Explain to guests how you knew, six months before the President, what he was going to do about wages, prices, Vietnam and China. Then insist that he is 100 per cent right, or 100 per cent wrong. It's permissible to straddle a political question, but not a politician.

Be loud. Be rude. Complain. Make an anonymous phone call and just breathe. Call all older men "Pop." Attend all the dirty movies and call them "disgusting." Be a boor. Be a bore. Don't take nuthin' from nobody.

Now you're a member of the Age of Hostility.

The Judgments Of History

By James Reston

WASHINGTON — These are hard days for men and women who believe in the moral judgments of history and cling, for all our doubts, to the Christmas ideal of world unity and brotherhood.

For there is no unity in the world at the end of 1971, and far from supporting the religious mission of peace and goodwill on earth, the saddest and bitterest quarrels of contemporary history are between Moslem and Hindu on the subcontinent of South Asia, between Jew and Arab in the Middle East and between Protestant and Roman Catholic in Ireland.

Even that other forlorn dream — that women might one day lead the nations into a more peaceful and considerate world — gets little support from Golda Meir's warrior policy in Israel or from the smiling picture of Mrs. Indira Gandhi, holds folded as in prayer, rejoicing over the military dismemberment of Pakistan.

So for the moment it would seem that the bawling demands of nationalism are louder than ever, and while the leaders of the world talk incessantly about cooperation, consultation and the common problems of a distracted world, each grabs what he can for himself and his own people, and the whole machinery of time works blindly on, in disregard of the humble and the poor, and realpolitik and the steam-roller advance of organized force not only prevail but, as Herbert Butterfield puts it, actually seem "to be blessed with the final favor of heaven."

The evidence of this is all around us — indeed by the so-called "great powers" of the world. The Soviet Union has changed its tactics but not its strategy. It is much more polite in its discussions with the United States on arms control at Vienna and Helsinki, all right, but it welcomes Willy Brandt and Richard Nixon to Moscow and appeals for a European security conference to reduce tensions in the Old World, but when it has an opening for a power play to expand its influence in India and outflank China, or is threatened by freedom in Czechoslovakia, it ships out the tanks and planes and then turns smiling for cooperation if cooperation, like violence, serves its national interests.

On a wholly different level, the United States has recently been acting on its own nationalistic interest, making vast and sudden switches in its foreign policy and its economic policy without prior consultation with its allies, whose interests and confidence are deeply involved in Washington's decisions. And there is a lot to support this sort of action by the United States and the Soviet Union, if you assume that the world is a jungle in which power is the one and only decisive element in human affairs. And also if you assume that it works.

Well, maybe it does, and there is a lot of evidence to support the idea. But what happens in the world over the longer perspectives of history is not really decided by military or economic power alone. The United States has more military or economic power than any other nation on earth, and this has been true for more than a quarter of a century, but its military power didn't work in Vietnam, and, though Secretary of the Treasury Connally has lately been shaking his fist at the world and telling our natural allies in Europe and Japan to "shape up," the fact is that he is now devaluing the dollar and, being not only a tough but a realistic politician, he and the President have finally decided that they can defend America's vital interests better by cooperating with the other commercial nations than by commanding and brutalizing them.

And this is really the fundamental question: whether the nations have more to gain by competition, protectionism and war for their national interests or by creating that different world of unity and brotherhood, which is what the Christmas ideal is supposed to be all about.

This is not only a theological but a practical political question. It is not really proved that power alone determines the destiny of the human family, or that nations, any more than individuals, are immune to the moral judgements of history.

The history of Germany and Japan are only the latest dramatic illustrations of the point. In the short run, military power served them very well, but later on they were destroyed by military power, and they have now risen near the pinnacle of influence in the world by rejecting it.

The war between India and Pakistan is only the latest illustration of the point. Pakistan was vicious toward its rebels in East Bengal and was almost destroyed by its savage repression and wholesale murder of the people of Bangladesh. Likewise, India, seeing a moment of stupidity on the part of Pakistan, sacrificed her own moral law and made war on Pakistan and won — but only for the moment.

No sooner had India's victory at Dacca in East Pakistan become apparent than China spoke out: "History has proved," said Peking, "that no aggressor comes to a good end. Relying on the support of the Soviet Union... the Indian expansionists have now occupied large tracts of Pakistani territory... henceforth, there will be no tranquility for India on the South Asian subcontinent..."

For those who reject the notion that there are moral judgments of history, that nations, like individuals, in the end have to face the consequences of their acts, the problem can be put in terms of physics. Every force creates a counterforce, and this is the weakness of nationalism. It works for a while, and power is essential to meet the power that it opposes, but there is still a moral law of compensation in the world. There is a moral judgment of history on nations as well as on individuals, and this is the point the men of power seem to miss, even after all the failures of power in Vietnam and elsewhere.

PENNSYLVANIA STORY

Rural Power Strikes

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — Rural "upstate power" has struck again in the body politic of Pennsylvania's legislative greats, this time in the House of Representatives when the lid was slammed on the 51-judge "pork barrel" bill ushered to the House by the Senate.

But between now and next week when the Legislature returns from its Christmas recess, the Shapp Administration and many of their Democratic colleagues in the House and Senate will be doing their best to pry the lid off again.

And behind all the tugging, pleading and arm-twisting will be Governor Shapp's desire to make an "end run" around Senate confirmation of his political appointments.

Never mind that the need for a good many of the judges is highly questionable. And never mind that this would saddle a lot of counties with undesired financial burdens for court administration and court quarters. (One Pittsburgh Democratic Senator literally begged for a reduction in the eight judges ticketed for his city — he lost.)

After all, some swift gubernatorial appointments are in order!

It is interesting to note that it has fallen upon the House twice in recent weeks to put the skids on two different "grabs." First there was the "pension grab" initiated by the Senate but kaboshed by a House Committee. Then last week there was the "appointment grab" stifled by the lower chamber.

The 81-109 defeat of the judgeship bill came by way of a combination of 79 Republicans and 30 Democrats in the House, most of whom were from upstate rural areas outside the big cities.

Central to the issue is the fact that although Democrats outnumbered Republicans in the Senate (as they do in the House) there aren't enough to guarantee the required two-thirds vote for confirmation on appointments made by the Governor even though he also is a Democrat.

This, then, would require His Excellency's having to deal with minority Senate Republicans; not a thought to warm the cockles of his heart!

The time-honored way to avoid this stickiness is for a Governor to make what are called "interim" appointments after the Legislature takes what is called a "sine die" adjournment.

This is, the legislators head for open spaces after officially calling an end to the year's activity. Otherwise, the 1972 session simply blends into the 1973 session without an official "break."

But — with an official "break" (that is, sine die adjournment) the Governor could, quick as a March hare, make appointments to his heart's desire!

The great expectation was that the Legislature would pass the "court packing" bill and then formally quit for the year. Then — to Shapp things up — the Governor could make interim appointments of the 51 judges, all the while abiding by any necessary "agreed upon" appointments.

But, more importantly, the Governor would be enabled to appoint some 150 other individuals to key and non-key slots on various state boards and commissions — with the major appointment being that of John C. Pittenger as Secretary of Education.

All this without the fuss of Senate confirmation!

Public funds are being used to maintain a public road which we are not allowed to travel. The only thing legal is the sign. The reasoning and action behind the sign is illegal as hell.

A township supervisor boasts of the fact that their tax millage is the lowest in the county, but don't forget we all pay a lot of taxes for things from which we may not directly benefit.

I don't think it would be asking too much if the county commissioners of the state were requested to withhold all liquid fuel tax money for Glade Township's illegal move. This is just plain being penny wise and pound foolish.

Over 50,000 tourists used the Hemlock Road before its illegal closing. Every business in the area has some merchandise or a service to a large number of these same people. No one can possibly be so greedy as to think that just a few businessmen are the only ones to benefit from this. We can't all be shop workers and politicians. Name one town in this Commonwealth that will turn away 50,000 tourists. Some people are reluctant to admit the effect of tourism on the general economy of the area.

Other areas spend thousands of dollars to attract tourists while one article in our area brings them in by the thousands. Why are we so reluctant to spend a few thousand dollars a year to maintain a mere 2.9 miles of road to a real tourist hot spot. This is only on a temporary basis; not for the next 50 years.

I think it's time to quit talking and take some positive action. It's time the KDVB, Chamber of Commerce, county commissioners and the Glade Township supervisors get organized into an action group before this thing causes anymore problems or hard feelings among our local people and our visitors.

Consulting Firm Questions Proposed Justice Pensions

HARRISBURG (AP)—A Philadelphia consulting firm has questioned House-approved legislation to provide district justices with state pensions of up to 180 per cent of their salaries after 30 years of service.

"Pensions of this order of magnitude in relation to salaries are not socially desirable nor are they likely to be accepted by the general public paying the taxes to support the cost of funding them."

The remark was contained in a recent report by Kenneth H. Ross of Huggins & Co., Inc., to the State Employees Retirement Board. The firm serves as actuaries of the state retirement system.

The House-approved bill, Ross said, proposes a pension payout to the justices at three times the rate of regular state employees but requires contribution that would only be 50 per cent higher. Ross fixed the cost to the taxpayers at $2.2 million annually.

There are some 400 district judges in the state who have replaced magistrates, aldermen and justices of the peace in the minor judiciary.

S2007. Economic Opportunity Amendments of 1971. Override President's Dec. 9 veto of a bill extending Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) programs for two years and authorizing $6.3-billion for programs in fiscal 1972-1974, establishing a comprehensive child development program and creating a National Legal Services Corporation. Veto sustained 51-36: R 10-29; D 41-7 (ND 33-0; SD 8-7), Dec. 10, 1971. A two-thirds majority vote (58 in this case) was required to override the veto. A "nay" was a vote in support of the President's position.

YEAS: Pennsylvania — Flood (D), Saylor (R), Vigorito (D); New York — Halpern (R).
NAYS: Pennsylvania — Johnson (R), McDade (R).

Following are the votes of area Congressmen on major roll calls during the week ending Dec. 17.

SENATE
Rehnquist Nomination. Motion to confirm William H. Rehnquist as an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. Adopted 68-26: R 38-3; D 30-23 (ND 14-21; SD 16-2), Dec. 10, 1971. A "yea" was a vote in support of the President's position.

YEAS: Pennsylvania — Schweiker (R), Scott (R); New York — Buckley (R).
NAYS: New York — Javits (R).

Ross noted that under the provisions of the bill, "it would be possible for a justice to enter service at age 30, serve 30 years and retire at age 60 on a retirement allowance of 180 per cent of final average salary. If his final average salary, is say, $15,000 this would mean a pension of $27,000 annually."

In addition, Ross continued, the pensioner would be entitled at 62 to a Social Security pension that might be 15 per cent of salary.

The pension bill, which cleared the House on Dec. 8 by a vote of 194-2, is now in the Senate State Government Committee, headed by Sen. Frank Mazzei, D-Allegheny, a longtime Pittsburgh alderman.

The senate earlier this session voted overwhelmingly to double legislative pensions at an annual cost to the taxpayers of $1.4 million.

The House, however, objected, and the Senate recalled the bill.

Legislative salary and pension increases, and those for the judges, statewide elected officials and cabinet members, are under consideration by a five-member compensation commission, which met for the first time last week and said it hoped to make its recommendations within six to eight months.

USSR Calls Devaluation Of Dollar A 'Blow To U.S. Prestige'

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
MOSCOW — The Soviet Union Sunday called the devaluation of the dollar a "blow to the U.S. prestige" that demonstrated a "new power balance" in the capitalist world, but gave no indication how it would affect the exchange rate of the ruble.

But the expectation of western financial experts here was that after waiting to see how other major trading currencies react, the Soviet Union would allow the ruble to rise in terms of the dollar by maintaining the fixed ruble parity with gold, just as London and Paris have done with the pound sterling and the franc.

"Ever since Aug. 15, the Soviets have been calling for dollar devaluation against gold," one western economic specialist observed. "They've been saying the dollar was overvalued. I don't see how they could now devalue the ruble against gold and move with the dollar."

This would increase Moscow's disadvantage in its unfavorable balance of trade with the United States because Soviet exports would cost more for American customers, unless Moscow voluntarily reduced their prices.

But financial specialists said any such disadvantage would be more than offset by the trading advantage Moscow would gain by the upward revaluation of the West German mark and the Japanese yen. Germany and Japan are two of Moscow's major free world trading partners and the United States lags far behind.

More important, specialists suggested, would be the propaganda benefits Moscow would derive from having the dollar look weak while the ruble parity with gold was being maintained.

Soviet officials have been reported to be almost jubilant at the news of the American currency devaluation. And Tass, the Soviet press agency, said that the United States was "compelled to suppress its 10 per cent surcharge and abolish a number of other discriminatory measures introduced on Aug. 15."

The dollar devaluation itself, Tass went on, "is not only a blow to U.S. prestige but also reflects a deep crisis in the entire pattern of the American economy and trade which bear the burden of inordinate military spending, growing inflation and an ever-worsening balance of payments deficit."

Tass said not a word about whether any of these problems might be eased by the various currency adjustments announced over the weekend, though it noted that treasury secretary John B. Connally has said that Washington would seek trading concessions from other nations in the weeks ahead.

Nonetheless, Tass asserted that the agreement reached this past weekend "testifies to a new power balance in the competition within the capitalist world in which Washington is no longer able to dictate its terms to its partners on major economic issues."

Chiefs Over Bills

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jan Stenerud's five field goals and Bobby Bell's 26-yard pass interception return for the lone touchdown gave the Kansas City Chiefs a 22-9 National Football League victory Sunday over the hapless Buffalo Bills.

The Chiefs, American Conference West Division champions who face Miami here Saturday in the playoffs, had their lineup sprinkled liberally with reserves.

Their attack was directed by Mike Livingston and John Huarte, the former Notre Dame star who hadn't seen a down in action in previous 1971 regular season games.

Len Dawson, Kansas City's regular quarterback, confined his role to holding the ball for Stenerud's placements.

Still, Livingston and Huarte, plus Stenerud's fabulous foot, proved adequate in what was a dull contest with the Bills.

Stenerud booted field goals of 48, 23, 48, 45 and 34 yards and missed two others, one a 25-yarder.

During the first half, Buffalo kicker John Leybold kept a field goal ahead of Stenerud, putting the Bills ahead each time with kicks of 45, 31 and 49 yards.

Stenerud came back to match each Leybold kick and deadlocked the game at 9-9 at the half.

Eagle Comeback Ends With Win

NEW YORK (AP) — "Ed Khayat will be back next season as our coach—and that's official," Philadelphia owner Leonard Tose said Sunday after the Eagles whipped the New York Giants 41-28.

"He did a fantastic job, coming on as he did with virtually no notice," Tose said of Khayat, who replaced Jerry Williams, taking over a winless team early in the National Football League season and hauling it out of the cellar for the first time since 1967—and dumping the Giants into it.

The Eagles, who won their first game against the Giants, beating them 23-7 in Philadelphia, proceeded to take six of their final nine games to end the season third in the National

Hawks Hold

Atlanta (AP) — The Atlanta Hawks withstood a fierce Cincinnati rally Sunday night to endge the Royals 101-99 in a National Basketball Association game.

With Pete Maravich leading the way with a game-high 27 points, the Hawks never trailed and led by as many as 15 points late in the third quarter.

Bulls Trample

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bob Love scored 36 points and Chet Walker added 26 as the Chicago Bulls trounced Cleveland 119-101 in a National Basketball Association contest, breaking a three-game losing streak for the Bulls.

Chicago only outscored Cleveland 90-86 from the field, but made up the difference at the foul line. The Bulls hit 29 of 36 free throws, compared to 15 of 30 for the Cavaliers.

Bucks Blast

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks captured their 10th consecutive National Basketball Association victory Sunday night, overpowering the Baltimore Bullets in the third quarter en route to a 111-96 triumph.

Kareem Abdul Jabbar, who finished with 34 points to lead both teams, scored 12 in the Washington 26 where he was pushed out of bounds by Larry Brown.

Five plays later, quarterback Bill Nelson found tight end Chip Glass just inside the end zone to complete the four yard TD aerial.

The Redskins made a concerted effort to salvage a tie, but Kilmer's fourth down pass to Charley Harraway was knocked down by linebacker John Garlington.

Cleveland scored first on Dock Cockcroft's 3-yard field goal. After the Skins' Curt Knight knotted the score with an 18-yard boot, Nelson collaborated with tight end Gary Collins on a 17-yard scoring pass.

Washington took a 13-10 lead into the dressing room at intermission on Kilmer's 29-yard TD pass to Brown and Knight's 35-yard three pointer.

The victory left Cleveland with a 9-5 regular season record while Washington closed with 9-4-1 and the Redskins' first playoff spot since 1945.

Both teams go into post-season play next Sunday. The Skins will meet the National Conference Western Division champion while Cleveland will take on the American Conference Eastern Division runner-up.

Knight tied an NFL record for the most field goal attempts in a season when he tried a 38-yarder in the third period which was wide to the left. The record of 49 attempts was set by Bruce Gossett with Los Angeles in 1966.

Brown rushed for 81 yards against a strong Cleveland defense to finish with 948 yards for the season. Leroy Kelly was Cleveland's top ball-carrier with 50 yards in 18 rushes.

Both Kilmer and Nelson went the entire game. Kilmer completed 18 of 33 passes for 229 yards and one touchdown, with two interceptions, while Nelson hit on 15 of 23 for 154 yards, two touchdowns and two interceptions.

Conference East with a 6-1 record. The Giants wound up 4-10.

"The credit for the way we came on this season belongs to everyone drawing an Eagles paycheck," said Khayat. "With what we've got now, we'll be a contender next year."

Quarterback Pete Liske was the main cog in the scoring machine as the Eagles rolled up their biggest output of the season. He threw for three touchdowns while Tom Dempsey added a pair of field goals.

Liske tossed scoring passes of three yards to Steve Zabel, 22 to Ben Hawkins and 63 to Harold Jackson.

It was the Eagles' defense, however, that opened the scoring in the first quarter as cornerback Al Nelson picked off a Randy Johnson pass and ran it 19 yards for a touchdown.

Johnson guided New York 72 yards in 13 plays on the ensuing kickoff with Rocky Thompson slamming over from one yard out to tie the score.

Then, in the second quarter, Liske went to work, directing Philadelphia 54 yards before hitting Zabel for the go-ahead touchdown.

Third quarter as the Bucks pulled away from a 58-58 tie.

Jamestown Defeats

Defending Champ

Jamestown High School, led by Jim Young, Terry Chili, and Mark Edstrom, defeated Shenley, last year's Pennsylvania State champions 87-73 Saturday night.

Young canned 25 points to lead the Jamestown scorers while Chili pumped in 21, as did Edstrom.

Roaring to 41-20 halftime lead, the Red Raiders were consistent throughout the night, scoring at least 20 and 23 points in all four quarters.

Chili, besides tipping seven missed shots in for points, pulled in 21 astray shots and blocked eight others.

The course of the game was summed up in the first 70 seconds as Chili blocked two shots, making Shenley shy of attempting to shoot underneath.

Taking to outside shots, only Bob (Jeep) Wells was effective as he netted 34 tallies on the night.

The Raiders, with four straight wins, got top notch defensive play from the 6-1 Young, who blocked three shots.

The victory ended the Falcons' season with a 7-6-1 record. New Orleans finished 4-8-2, narrowly missing the triumph that would have given them their best season ever.

New Orleans appeared on the way to victory until Berry went to work in the last six minutes of the game. He connected with Burrow on an 84-yard pass which carried to the Saints three, and Art Malone plunged over from one yard out three plays later to lift the Falcons to a 17-17 tie after Bill Bell's extra point.

Rookie Virgil Robinson returned the ensuing kickoff 51 yards to mid-field and Charlie Durkee booted a 36-yard field goal with 3:14 to play, putting the Saints ahead 20-17.

But Jim "Cannonball" Butler returned the ensuing New Orleans kickoff 36 yards to the Falcon 49 and Berry took nine plays to get Atlanta into the end

Liberty Bowl Battle Tonite

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Joe Ferguson, Arkansas' strong-armed passer with an ailing right shoulder, faces one of the nation's top defensive college football powers Monday night when the 18th-ranked Razorbacks battle No.9 Tennessee in the Liberty Bowl.

Tennessee, which closed with six consecutive victories, is a one-point favorite in the 9 p.m. EST match before a Memorial Stadium sellout crowd of 50,100 plus a national television audience (ABC).

The Vols got an offensive boost on the eve of the game with the announcement that two-time All-Southeastern Conference fullback Curt Watson will see action.

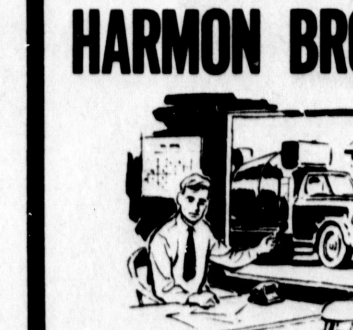

Watson, Tennessee's all-time rushing king with 2,364 yards, suffered a rib fracture against Vanderbilt and did not play in the regular season-ending 31-11 victory over previously unbeaten Penn State.

Coach Frank Broyles of Arkansas says it "still pained Joe to throw," but the All-Southwest Conference quarterback is scheduled to start.

Ferguson paced Arkansas to an 8-2-1 season by hitting on 160 of 271 passes for 2,203 yards and 11 touchdowns. The Razorbacks pinned a 31-7 defeat on Texas, which will face Penn State in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day.

However, Ferguson's favorite target, All-SWC wide receiver Mike Reppond, will not play because of a thigh injury. Reppond ranked among the nation's leading receivers with 56 catches for 987 yards and three touchdowns.

CLINCH PLAYOFF SPOT Frisco Tames Lions, 31-27

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers came from behind for the third time in the game on a desperation 10-yard touchdown run by quarterback John Brodie in the fourth period Sunday to beat the Detroit Lions team 31-27 and claim the last remaining berth in the National Football League playoffs.

Brodie also threw three touchdown passes in the wild nationally-televised game in which the lead changed hands five times.

The 49ers finished the season with a 9-5 record to win their season-long struggle with the Los Angeles Rams for the National Football Conference West championship.

The Rams had pulled into a temporary tie for the lead with a 23-14 victory over Pittsburgh in a game that ended shortly before the opening kickoff here. The Rams finished 8-5-1. Brodie's touchdown run came after the Lions, knocked out of playoff contention a week earlier, went for a first down on the first play of the fourth period on a fourth-down play at their own 40-yard line.

Quarterback Greg Landry, who needed a half-yard, was stopped as he tried to sneak through the middle.

The 49ers, trailing 27-24 at that point, went in for the game's final touchdown in nine plays. Brodie passed 10 yards to running back Larry Schreiber on a third-and-four play for one first down and an offside penalty against Detroit gave the 49ers another crucial first down at the 12.

On a third-and-eight play from the 10, Brodie faded back to pass, escaped two rushing Lions and scrambled up the middle for the winning touchdown with 10 minutes to play.

Detroit was unable to threaten again, and linebacker Frank Nunley intercepted a Landry pass at the Lions' 37 with 1:13 to play to ice the game.

The 49ers, who will open the playoffs here next Sunday against Eastern Division runner-up Washington, took a 17-6 lead in the second quarter when Brodie threw a 10-yard touchdown pass to running back Ken Willard.

Brodie had put San Francisco ahead 7-3 with a 12-yard scoring pass to Dick Witcher in the opening period.

Detroit moved to a 20-17 lead after Altie Taylor ran 14 yards for a second-quarter touchdown and Steve Owens scored on a one-yard run early in the third period.

The 49ers went ahead 24-20 on Brodie's 30-yard pass to Gene Washington, but the Lions struck back on a six-yard touchdown pass from Landry to Charlie Sanders to go ahead 27-24 near the end of the third quarter.

On the Lions' second period touchdown drive, which went 80 yards, Landry broke an NFL season record for rushing yardage by a quarterback and Owens became the first Detroit player in history to rush for 1,000 yards in a season.

Landry gained 25 yards in five carries Sunday, giving him 530 for the year, seven over the rushing record set by Tobin Rote of Green Bay in 1951.

Owens netted 50 yards against the 49ers to finish the season with 1,035.

Brodie's first touchdown pass of the day was the 200th of his 15-year NFL career. He completed 14 of 20 passes for 186 yards against the Lions.

Forfeit, Irish Drubbing Highlight Weekend Action

Florida State's unbeaten string came to an abrupt halt Saturday night but the beating Notre Dame's basketball team took lasted an agonizing full 40 minutes.

The high flying and ninth-ranked Seminoles dropped a 30-10 decision at Hawaii, the victory going to the Islanders after only nine minutes of play when Florida State Coach Hugh Durham, hit by a technical foul, refused to leave the court.

After a wait of two minutes, the referees awarded the game to Hawaii on a forfeit.

Notre Dame might have wished for an early end but the Irish played it out and were humiliated 94-29 by 12th ranked Indiana.

The confusion in Hawaii started with Florida State, 5-1, trailing 26-10. A foul was called on the Seminoles' Otto Perry who said something to the official drawing a technical foul. Durham stormed onto the court and he, too, was assessed with a technical. After placing his hands on the official's chest, Durham was thrown out of the game.

The foul shots were converted by Hawaii, now 5-0, and when Durham did not leave, the officials called the forfeit.

Gannon Wins In Double Overtime

Glenn Summers pushed in 31 points, and pulled down 31 rebounds to lead Gannon to a 88-84 victory over San Francisco Saturday in double overtime.

Summers had help from teammate Harry McGlocklin who had quite the team earlier this year during practice. McGlocklin, appearing in his first game, put in 12 second quarter points in the come-from-behind win.

San Francisco jumped out to a quick ten point advantage and made it stand up leading at the end of the first quarter, 38-30.

Holding the eight point lead until late in the fourth quarter, led by Dill Metcalf's 24 points and Gary Bradford's 17 San Francisco seemed well on their way to a victory, then Arribi sunk two field goals and Summers put one in to close the gap to a two point deficit. Collen Malseed then tipped in a basket to tie the score.

Gannon and the Golden Gators finished the first overtime period with eight tallies each, but Gannon came on in the second overtime to wipeout San Francisco with a 10-6 edge in the period.

Gannon record now stands at four wins against one defeat, will host the Gem City Bowl Wednesday and Thursday.

BONAVENTURE'S FIRST LOSS BG Nips Bonnies, 87-84

The high-flying Falcons of Bowling Green State University handed visiting St. Bonaventure its first loss of the season Saturday, taking a close 87-84 decision.

The game was nip-and-tuck throughout with BG able to grab a one point advantage, 43-42 when the teams went off for halftime.

The Bonnies' Matt Gantt had a hot first half, almost single-handedly keeping St.

Bonaventure close. Gantt, who finished with 25 points, connected for 20 in the first 20 minutes period and blocked six shots at the defensive end of the court.

The New York team was hurt on two counts—key personnel out with injuries and too many fouls. Carl Jackson, a starter, has his left knee in a cast as a result of an injury sustained in the DePaul game Dec. 15. Rich Murry, subbing for Jackson, injured his leg and was forced to the bench early after scoring just four points. Gantt and Glen Price had foul trouble, both collecting their fourth by 16:42 of the second half.

Price knotted the score at 82-82 late in the game, but the Falcons Tom Scott hit a shot from the floor, then tossed in three field goals to give BG a comfortable five point lead.

What keeps Pa. running?

Every one of us uses an average of three gallons of oil every day. So do all the other 205 million Americans. Oil and natural gas supply 75 percent of our energy needs: almost all transportation, most of what is used for cooking and heating, more than 40 percent of all our electricity. A country that runs on oil can't afford to run short.

21-17 VICTORY STUNNING

Patriots Upset Colts

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jim Plunkett's 88-yard touchdown pass to Randy Vataha, after New England stopped a late Baltimore bid, ensured a 21-17 victory for the Patriots Sunday which knocked the Colts out of first place in the American Football Conference East.

Broncos Saddled With 21-13 Loss

OAKLAND (AP) — Quarterback Daryle Lamonica hit tight end Raymond Chester on a 67-yard scoring bomb in the first quarter, and the Oakland Raiders went on to defeat the Denver Broncos 21-13 Sunday afternoon.

The Raiders completed the season with an 8-4-2 record for the second year in a row. Denver finished at 4-9-1.

Lamonica, booted throughout the game by the capacity crowd of 54,651, completed eight of 18 passes for 182 yards but had three interceptions.

The Raiders scored in each of the first two quarters. Lamonica connected with Chester for the first touchdown after Denver defensive back Bill Thompson fell down trying for an interception.

Jim Turner's field goal from 14 yards out, following an interception by Charlie Greer, made it 7-3.

Oakland went ahead 14-3 with a 74-yard scoring march in 12 plays early in the second quarter. Two penalties, including a pass interference call on the Denver six, helped score the touchdown. Charlie Smith, who missed most of the season with a leg injury after starting at halfback for the previous three years, scored from the one.

The Raiders defense put on a goal line stand in the second quarter to thwart a Bronco scoring march. Denver gained a first down on the one, but couldn't score in the next four plays.

Fran Lynch was tossed for a one-yard loss by Jack Tatum. Floyd Little was then stopped for no gain on the next two plays and quarterback Steve Ramsey's fourth down pass was incomplete in the end zone.

Baltimore one-half game behind Miami, the Colts qualified for the playoffs with a 10-4 record and will play Cleveland's Central Division winners in the post-season opener next Sunday.

Plunkett's second TD pass of the game to Vataha, with 2:22 remaining, came after the Patriots preserved their 14-10 lead by stopping the Colts on the 13.

The bomb to Vataha came on a third-and-11 play from the 12. The speedy wide receiver caught the ball over his shoulders at about the Baltimore 40 and ran the rest of the way untouched.

Baltimore scored with 26 seconds remaining on a 13-yard pass from Johnny Unitas to Edie Hinton, and then the Colts failed to recover an on-side kick.

Plunkett, who completed 10 of 17 passes for 170 yards, finished with 18 touchdown passes for the season, the second-best ever by a National Football League rookie.

Vataha caught a one-yard TD pass from Plunkett early in the second quarter and New England moved ahead 14-3 by halftime when cornerback John Outlaw picked off a Unitas pass with 1:08 to play and ran 60 yards for a touchdown.

Unitas, who was held to zero passing yardage in the first half, finished with 16 of 32 for 164 yards. His 31-yard pass to Hinton pulled Baltimore to within 14-10 in the third quarter, after Jim O'Brien booted a 12-yard field goal just before the half.

The Colts struck for their first touchdown after New England's Bob Gladioux fumbled a punt reception and Ken Mendenhall recovered on the Baltimore 45. Then trailing only 14-10, the Colts were given another break when Plunkett fumbled on the first play following the kickoff and Billy Newsome recovered for Baltimore on the Patriots' 28.

But the Patriots shoved the Colts back five yards, and O'Brien was wide right on a field goal attempt from the 40.

CSONKA, KICK RUN WILD

Dolphins Explode, 27-6

MIAMI (AP) — Playoff bound Miami exploded for three touchdowns in five minutes Sunday and smashed the Green Bay Packers 27-6 in a National Football League game played before a record Dolphin crowd of 76,812.

Miami, finishing the season 10-3-1, made one final stab at catching world champion Baltimore in the Eastern Division of the American Conference.

The Colts, 10-3, needed a victory over New England to tuck away the title although both Miami and Baltimore clinched playoff spots last weekend.

Not even the return of Bart Starr as Green Bay's starting quarterback was able to ignite the Packer offense.

Green Bay's Donny Anderson fumbled on the next offensive play after being clobbered by Dolphin end Jim Riley and Miami's Bob Matheson recovered at the Packer 25.

Paul Warfield sailed 19 yards on a receiver reverse and two plays later Larry Csonka, who became the first Dolphin ever to

Governors Wage Bet Of State Fruits

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shapp and Texas Gov. Preston Smith have a small bet going on the outcome of the Cotton Bowl game: a bushel of Pennsylvania McIntosh apples against a bushel of Texas grapefruit. rush for 1,000 yards in a season, slammed over from the 1 to make it 20-6.

Green Bay's skid continued as, on the next Packer series, Lloyd Mumphord blocked Tim Webster's 54-yard field goal try with Curtis Johnson scooping it up and flying 47 yards for a score with 12:19 left in the game.

Csonka gained 68 yards in 14 attempts to finish the season with 1,051. Officials stopped the game and presented the ball to the 235-pound running back when he broke over the 1,000 mark.

VICTORY OVER STEELERS MEANINGLESS

Rams Win, But Miss Playoffs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — With the West Division title of the National Football Conference hanging on the outcome of the San Francisco-Detroit game, the Los Angeles Rams were cautiously realistic after their 23-14 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday.

"It was hard for us to play this game," said Ram quarterback Roman Gabriel. "I really don't think our team concentrated well at all. We all just think San Francisco is not going to lose."

The Rams, a half-game back of the 49ers, had several hours to wait for the outcome of the San Francisco game, after defeating the Steelers on the strength of four interceptions of Terry Bradshaw passes.

"We knew we had to win," said Gabriel. "But it was just hard to get up for it because we knew our chances were slim." "He said they were down?" Bradshaw asked, adding, "He just said that because of the score. You don't get down when you're up for a championship."

But Rams' Coach Tom Prothro said his team hadn't practiced well all week.

"We were high and tight last week against Washington. We just didn't know if this game meant anything. You hope it does, but you really don't know."

The Rams scored the first three times they got the ball then held on to defeat the Steelers.

Two field goals by Dave Ray and a 20-yard touchdown pass from Roman Gabriel to Jack Snow gave the Rams a 13-10 first quarter lead. Ray added another field goal in the second quarter after the Steelers scored their first touchdown. The Steelers, 6-8, got within striking distance when quarterback Terry Bradshaw led them on an 87-yard touchdown drive in the second half, hitting Ron Shanklin with a three-yard scoring pass. But the Rams, 8-5-1, helped by a broken pass play completion to Larry Smith scored again as the clock ran out at the end of the third period. Smith plunged over from the one for the touchdown.

Ray booted a 15-yard field goal after the Rams' Roger Williams returned the opening kickoff 57 yards.

The Steelers turned the ball back to the Rams when Coy Bacon tipped a Bradshaw pass and leaped to intercept it. The Steelers held and the Rams settled for a field goal. The first Ram touchdown came on the next series after the Steelers' John Fuqua fumbled on his own 35, and four plays later Snow scored on a pass from Gabriel.

With four minutes left, the Steelers drove to the Rams' 20-yard line, but Marlin McKeever intercepted a Bradshaw pass to end the last Pittsburgh threat.

The Steelers scored their first touchdown in the second quarter on a 58-yard drive in six plays, the touchdown coming on a three-yard pass from Bradshaw to rookie tight end Larry Brown. It was the first reception of Brown's career.

The Rams' Willie Ellison, playing with a cracked rib, carried the ball 11 times for 23 yards, giving him an even 1,000 yards for the regular season. He is only the second player in the history of the Rams to reach that mark in a season.

Ray's third field goal, a 28-yarder, came with a minute and a half remaining in the first half, after Gabriel led the Rams from their 31 to the Steeler 20. Snow picked up 30 yards in the drive on a pass from Gabriel.

Ken Houston

Oilers Victorious

HOUSTON (AP) — Safety Ken Houston intercepted two consecutive passes and returned them 34 and 29 yards for touchdowns Sunday to set two NFL records and jolt the Houston Oilers to a 49-33 victory over the San Diego Chargers.

Houston's electrifying runs came deep in the third quarter and set National Football League records for the most touchdown interception returns in a career with nine, and most in one game.

The Oilers, trailing 23-7 at the half, bolted into action as the third quarter started on a one-yard touchdown plunge by Robert "Tank" Holmes and a 62-yard touchdown pass from rookie quarterback Dan Pastorini to Kenny Burroughs. The Oilers scored their last three touchdowns on interceptions as left safety Bob Atkins, replacing injured John Charles, returned another pass by John Hadl 25 yards with two minutes and 17 seconds left to play.

The victory closed out Houston's season with a 4-9-1 record.

San Diego ended with a 6-8 record with all the losses on the road.

After a scoreless first quarter, San Diego took its halftime lead on touchdown runs of 4 and 5 yards by Jeff Queen, a 50-yard field goal by Dennis Pardee and a 27-yard fumble return by middle linebacker Bob Babich.

Houston's only score of the first half was a 14-yard halfback pass from Woody Campbell to wide receiver Charley Joiner.

San Diego's scoring in the second half was a one-yard run by Leon Burns, and a 20-yard field goal by Pardee.

What Dollar Devaluation Means

By SYLVIA PORTER

The dictionary definition of devaluation is "to diminish the value of something." The devaluation of the dollar now taking place means the dollar's value is being diminished both in terms of other currencies and in terms of gold.

This devaluation makes goods and services imported into the U.S. more expensive to American consumers. It takes more dollars to buy goods and services priced in German marks, Japanese yen, French francs, etc.

This devaluation also makes goods and services exported from the U.S. less expensive to foreign consumers. It takes fewer marks, yen, francs, etc., to buy goods and services originally priced in dollars.

Theoretically — and theoretically is A KEY word! — this should cut our purchases of imports and thereby help improve the competitive position of U.S. industries badly hurt by attractive imports.

It should help "price back" U.S. goods and services into the world markets and thereby expand U.S. exports.

Both of those theoretical consequences of the U.S. dollar devaluation should eventually create more jobs and paychecks for U.S. workers and more sales and profits for a varied list of American businesses.

If, for instance, you are in the market for a German Volkswagen or Japanese Toyota, the prices of these automobile imports will presumably be higher than they would have been without a devaluation.

Either you will go ahead and buy anyway, thereby accepting another hike in your cost of living. Or you will turn to a competitive U.S. automobile model, thereby giving a U.S. automaker a sales boost. Or the German and Japanese automakers will decide to absorb all or part of the impact of the dollar devaluation and thereby reduce their profit margins in order to keep you as a customer. You see why I use the words "theoretical" and "presumably."

It's highly probable, though, that prices of products which are available only from foreign makers — ranging from small appliances to unique gourmet foods — will reflect the devaluation in large part and quickly.

If you drink a lot of scotch whisky, you'll feel a pinch in your pocketbook.

If you are a U.S. tourist traveling abroad, there's no doubt that you'll be adversely affected. Your dollar plainly buys less of other currencies.

If your industry is closely or even indirectly related to imports, you may be hurt. If your industry is closely or even indirectly related to exports, you should be helped.

And now what about the devaluation in terms of gold — that barbaric metal which is in its twilight as a force in the world's monetary system? What does that mean to you?

Nothing.

Oh yes, the devaluation of the dollar in terms of gold for the first time in 37 years — and after so many, many passionate denials — has great symbolism.

It is a move that highest U.S. officials have stated repeatedly would "never" occur. It does give our trade partners an opportunity to claim they "forced the U.S. to act" — and that sounds fine to their audiences at home.

It does overnight enhance the value of the gold reserves of nations which have reserves. The U.S. still has more than $10 billion of gold in stock; West Germany has $4 billion; France, $3.5 billion; Italy, $2.9 billion; Switzerland, $2.8 billion.

It is a step that would have inspired French president de Gaulle to new peaks of rhetoric were he still alive, for de Gaulle had an almost insane hatred for what he called the American "hegemony" (American predominance); he turned in billions of U.S. dollars for U.S. gold between the late 1950s and late 1960s in a drive to drain the U.S. of gold and force us to raise the official gold price.

But the U.S. is not playing from weakness, even though we are conceding a modest gold price hike in return for the desired currency realignments.

We have made it clear we will not buy or sell gold at any price in this new deal. So what matter whether we are not buying or not selling it at $35 an ounce or not buying or not selling it at some other price? If we refuse to chain the dollar again to fixed gold price, what matter this fiction of official price levels? No matter.

Divine Revelation Comes In Numerous Ways

(Editor's note: Man, as a finite creature, can't grasp the infinite, but that doesn't prevent an infinite God from revealing Himself on the human level. His doing so is the basis of faith. To Christians, the high point in that process is the event celebrated at Christmas. A five-part series about it, "Light of the Incarnation," begins with the following article about the "Ways of Revelation.")

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

To a person in love, the smallest gestures, glances and intonations of the beloved are charged with significance. But a preoccupied stranger would scarcely notice. To him, they mean nothing.

That, in a sense, is humanity's ambiguous situation in regard to signs of the sacred.

In a Promethean age absorbed in man's technical mastery, God may seem to some a pointless blank, a nothingness. But others pick up the "signals of the transcendent" through sensitivity to them.

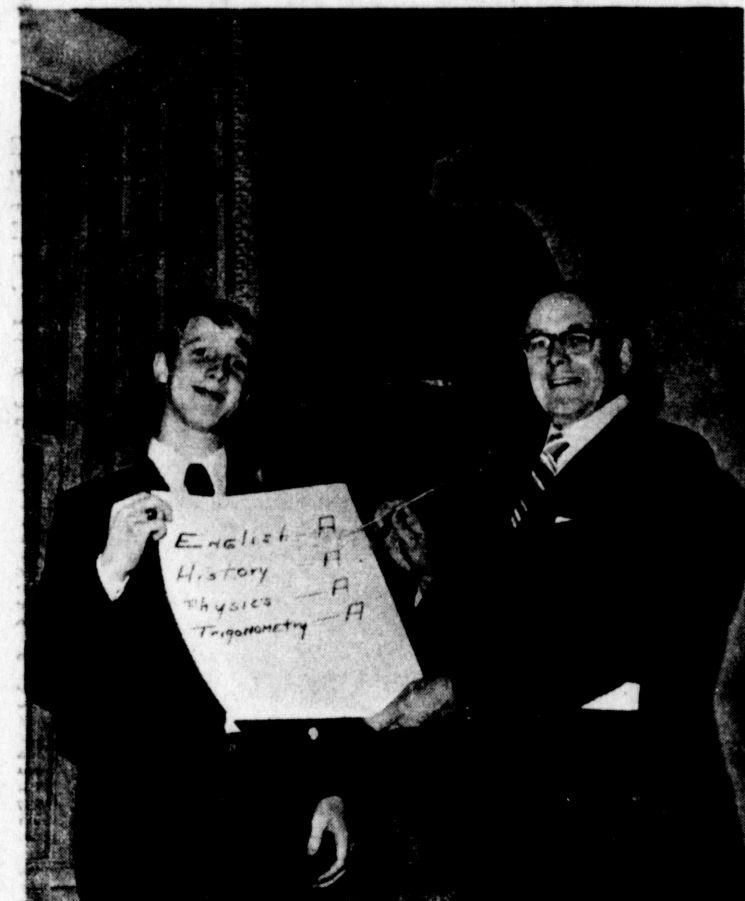

They're not and never have been blatantly obvious. "We walk by faith, not by sight," the roving apostle, Paul, put it long ago.

Only the caring know. Only the attentive hear the subtle notes. Only the lover reads another's love. And only the concerned caught the whispered message of Christmas.

WARREN YOUTH

By HUGH FLEMING
Times-Mirror and Observer
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Area Congressman Albert W. Johnson has received the first report card from the Capital Page School on the first session report of James Davis, currently serving as page in the United States House of Representatives.

No one in charge of the pages can remember when a page obtained a straight "A" average, but young Davis has achieved just that.

Jimmy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald T. Davis of 411 Liberty st., Warren.

Jimmy is finding that being a page is not an easy task. He must arrive at the page school at 6 a.m. in the morning, and is in the school until 9:30 a.m. He must then report to the capitol where he works on the staff of minority leader Gerald R. Ford until 12 noon when Congress convenes. Then he is on the floor answering telephones and delivering messages until adjournment, which is generally not until 7 or 8:30 in the evening.

Young Davis and a fellow page live in an apartment near the new Senate office building while they get their breakfast and lunch on Capitol Hill, they cook their own evening meal in the apartment after the close of the session.

In the response to a query, Jimmy said he was enjoying his career as a page despite the fact that it is very hard work and requires constant attention to the job. What makes the job so interesting, he said, is the fact that he is thrown in close contact with all members of Congress and also obtains phone calls from the president and members of the cabinet seeking to talk to members of Congress.

Of course Jimmy's tough job is not without its compensations. The government gives him pension and health benefits and for a 16 year old take home pay of $450 a month is pretty good.

called, an "illative sense," an uncalculated, penetrating kind of comprehension that includes but yet is more than mere adding up of the factual fragments.

In a way, it's like some rare moment in reading a Shakespearean sonnet when it suddenly lights up with new force and you realize, "Now I see." Or it's like the lonely, brooding Archimedes, bolting from his bath, exclaiming: "Eureka! I have found it!"

There is a gift-like quality about it, a plus, something surpassing mere deductive analysis. It is bestowed rather than achieved. And it is on that gracious plane that humanity received its grandest communication.

The "self-disclosure of God," the great Swiss thinker, Karl Barth, called it, the enfolding of the divine purpose for manhood in Jesus, the "Incarnation."

It is "the foundation of Christianity," says Catholic theologian Karl Rahner, and he observes: "Ideas only become truth in earnest when they stand forth in flesh and blood."

And that is the substance out of which have come the convictions of Judeo-Christianity, the world's oldest and largest religious lineage affirming one universal God of all creation.

The rudiments of the faith were spun out of the unfolding chronicles of mankind and inspired insights into concrete events, their implications, motivations and consequences.

It is the only religion "that takes history seriously," says Biblical archeologist G. Ernest Wright. "It assumes that the knowledge of God is associated with events that really happened in human life."

A Burden to Some
Other major religions, such as Buddhism and Hinduism, draw their concepts from inner contemplation and regard earthly history as a confining burden, seeking release from it.

But Judeo-Christianity considers it the matrix of enlightenment and growth, of consummate purpose with human decisions affecting its movement toward God's ultimate perfection of it.

Although the living experience of individuals and societies are the means of revelation, its divine pointers are not considered human discoveries, but rather are given, imparted, injected into the process, appealing for mankind's acceptance.

"It is always God who takes the initiative," says Catholic Bible scholar Walter J. Abbott. Men are left free to respond or not.

On a simpler level, you can't even know another person unless he bares his feelings and lets himself be known, leaving to you the option of reciprocating. More deeply, God is known only as he makes himself known.

Jewish scholar Abraham Heschel says doubt that it happens is based on self-contradictory positions: "One maintains that man is too great to need divine guidance, and the other maintains that man is too small to be worthy of it."

It doesn't come, however, in ethereal other-worldly fashion. "God always addresses us in human life," says Catholic theologian Gregory Baum.

The context for it is earthly reality itself, whose basic inexplicability first poses the question. That reality has man in its power, not vice versa. And the objective dynamics of that very fact impels man first to ask in order to be answered.

The prompting, the invitation, is implanted in the sheer mystery of existence. Why? From whom? For what? But learning from it always is a two-way proposition of invitation and response of submissive alertness to those aspects of reality that tell of God.

"Revealed truth always is relative to the minds that receive it," says British

A Shepherd Sees the Light

Methodist Kenneth G. Greet. As Goethe once put it, "Had not the eye a sunlit nature, the eye could never see the sun."

As in any field, however, objects, events, words, persons and the design of history itself take on meaning only through interpretation of them and the interpretations can be entirely wrong, mere illusions.

What then distinguishes and confirms the divine intimations to man? Basically, they are considered "self-authenticating," a quality that validates them in the testing of human experience.

"Revelation proves itself not only because of its intrinsic verity but also by its ability to guide men to many other truths," says Protestant theologian H. Richard Niebuhr.

You Must Believe
But the "clues" must first be spotted, sensed, somehow detected, and this necessitates openness to it, a predisposition for it. "If you do not believe, you will not understand," Augustine put it.

Similarly, even in the more limited physical sciences, it takes some prior belief or "hunch" about the data to arrive at new, further ramifications of it.

Obviously, however, religious concepts, like ethical, artistic, esthetic, psychological, social and even political values cannot be reduced to mathematical equations.

But they can be reasonably adduced and they can affirm themselves in the crucible of experience. Like a smile or a handshake, they have meaning even though they can't be tangibly demonstrated.

The interpretation "depends on the questions and expectations with which we approach the signs," says Catholic scholar Avery Dulles.

Even advanced physical science no longer is confined to stringent demonstrations and fixed facts or properties, but with variables, probabilities, change. And it, too, stands on the shoulders of its predecessors.

These girders of accumulated inspiration and insight into earthly events also form the basis of Judeo-Christianity. The Bible is the foundational record of those divine breakthroughs into human history.

"God's search for man," it is described, rather than being man's search for God. And its accents are considered a key for discerning the continuing divine activity in the present.

Scripture is not scientific exposition nor mere history, but a universal spiritual drama of an overarching compassion and concern for human integrity, of an unwavering love that seeks an answering affirmation.

Like all love, it is not forced. It finds completion only if freely returned.

The spark first caught among a nomadic, oppressed people of old, the Jews, drawing a responsive Abraham into a mutual covenant of devotion and promise. But God remained an inexpressible mystery.

Confidence a Savior

"I AM WHO I AM," came the nameless summons to a questioning Moses. "Hear...go...do...I will be with you." It was a strange bidding to action and struggle. Confidence in it freed Moses' people from slavery.

They thus began to realize, a little, the intent behind the mystery—to save, to free, to redeem.

Guidance for it was etched in the great ethical code, the 10 Commandments. The vision was sharpened by a succession of bold, penetrating men, the prophets, mirroring holy passion for justice, harmony and ultimate sanctification of the earth.

They voiced a strange, recurrent note, a conviction that somehow, full association would be re-established between God and man. "The glory of the Lord will be revealed," Isaiah said. "A light to the nations."

It was a hope, a longing for a clearer, closer knowing of God. But then, as always, it involved an element of prior recognition as a basis for interpreting it, a prerequisite of every gain in the finger ranges of knowing.

Like a love poem, it could be understood only if one has experienced love.

Should that poem be set to music, the meaning can be sharpened beyond both the words and the music, becoming an expression of truth that is more than either.

Hard to Define

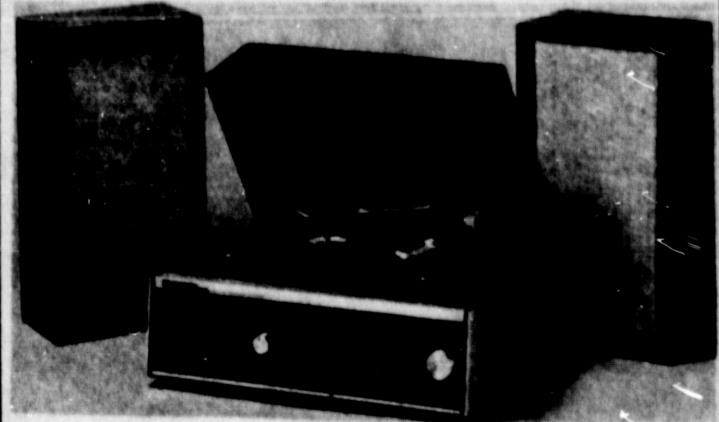

It is in that nebulous zone of "wider being" surpassing specific "beings" that revelation comes and substantiates itself. A person can't define it or possess it like a passive object, or know it even like another subjective person.

But he can receive it, if from that sphere exceeding the individual, or two of them, or all of them put together, it is imparted to them. It is not necessarily new, only newly known, which is considered the case, oddly and eternally, with Jesus.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am addressing this to one of those married-in-name-only women. Has your husband stopped begging for your favors because you froze him out long ago with your backaches, your headaches, your stock excuses—"The kids will hear. It's too late. It's too early." If you see yourself in this letter you should know that your husband hasn't simply dried up and stopped living. He has a charming, willing, exciting friend. Me.

Of course I would rather be a wife than a mistress, but both my lovers (yes, I have two) are in no position to marry and I am settling for whatever I can get. Neither man knows about the other and there's no reason they should. I see Mr. A on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and Mr. B on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. I am not a kept woman. My alimony from my ex-husband is substantial and I am a part-time model.

These two men contribute to my emotional good health as well as to my wardrobe, my jewelry box and the wine cellar. I contribute to their physical well being and their mental health. So you see, everybody gains. Even you. Since obviously what you want most is to be left alone. So—appreciate me. —No Name Lady.

Dear Lady: No Name? That's what YOU think. You have a name, but the paper wouldn't print it. How nice that you have Sunday off. A routine like yours could kill a girl. I have no advice for you, but I think you should know that everything has a price and you'll be paying up one of these days.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a telephone receptionist in a large office. During a working day I speak to at least 50 people on the telephone. Usually they are calling to be put through to an executive.

It so happens that the name of this firm is rather long (it's actually four names). Sometimes before I get past the first name, the caller will cut me cold and ask for Mr. So-and-So. Then there are the super-pompous jerks who don't ask—they DEMAND to be put through. They bark orders. "Connect me with..." or "Let me talk to..." Not please—just a command. Of course they never say "thank you."

The most exasperating callers are the ones who ring back a second and third time, after having left a name and number, and hint broadly that for personal reasons (which for the life of me, I have never been able to figure out) I failed to deliver their messages.

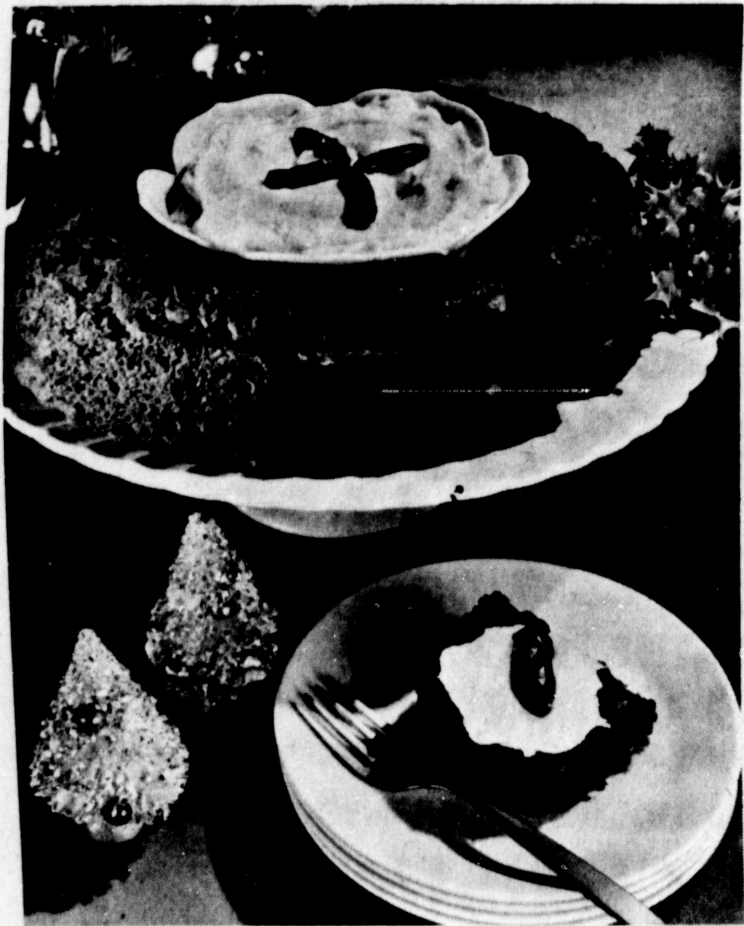

I hope you can find space in your column for this letter, Ann. You might make life more pleasant for hundreds of telephone receptionists. Thank you—The Voice

Dear Voice: Here is your letter and I hope it helps. Too often we forget what life is like for the person on the receiving end—and this goes beyond the telephone receptionist. Thanks for the reminder.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A girl I work with has asked me to sing at her wedding. I told her I would. I've done some professional singing and enjoy it. This girl is a new friend and has never heard me sing but she knows several people who have. Now I wonder if she expects me to sing as a favor. To put it bluntly, how can I find out if she intends to pay me?—Chickadee For Cash Please.

Dear Chick: You have already said yes—so THAT'S settled. All you can do now is wait and see if she considers you a professional or a friend. The time to have mentioned the fee was when she asked you to sing. Remember for the next time.

Olde English Plum Pudding -- A Delectable Holiday Tradition

A TRADITION CONTINUES with holiday plum pudding

Christmas is a season that is full of traditions, many of them dating back to early Christian history and to customs of peoples from many lands.

The American "Santa Claus" evolved from the Dutch bishop, Saint Nicholas, a Father Christmas figure who first found his way into children's hearts in the fourth century.

It was the German tribes who introduced the modern Christmas tree into the annual celebration, and history's first Christmas Carolers were French.

The custom of sending greeting cards at the Yuletide began with the English, the same people who began the custom of serving plum pudding as the fitting finale to every Christmas feast.

This holiday season, the importers of dates are offering a new recipe for this steamed cake-like dish that has been an American holiday tradition since Christmas was first celebrated here.

Despite its name, plum pudding contains no plums, but it is plum full of the delicious flavors of imported dates, currants, almonds and spices. And you can prepare Olde English Plum Pudding well in advance of the Christmas week rush—it will keep for weeks if it's tightly covered and stored in a cool place.

Olde English Plum Pudding
Pudding
¾ cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg

½ teaspoon mace
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
28-oz packages diced dates or whole dates, cut up
1 cup currants
½ cup candied lemon peel
1 cup chopped almonds
½ cup fine bread crumbs
¾ cup evaporated milk
4 eggs, separated
1 cup firmly-packed brown sugar
1½ cups ground suet (about ¾ pounds)
¼ cup orange juice
½ cup grape jelly or jam

Hard Sauce
2/3 cup butter
2 cups powdered sugar
1/3 cup evaporated milk

Sift flour, salt, baking soda and spices together into a large bowl. Stir in diced dates, currants, lemon peel and nuts.

Place bread crumbs in a separate bowl. Heat the evaporated milk, but do not boil it, then stir the hot milk into the bread crumbs. Let the bread crumb mixture stand for 5 to 10 minutes.

Beat egg yolks in a third bowl. Add brown sugar, beating until the mixture is fluffy. Mix in suet and bread crumb mixture. Stir in flour-fruit mixture. Mix in orange juice and jelly thoroughly. Fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites.

Place batter in a well-greased three quart mold, filling it 2/3 full. Cover tightly with a well-greased top (foil may be used as a cover). Steam for 3½ hours on top of the stove. Remove from mold and serve with hard sauce and a whole Bordo imported date. Yield: 12 servings.

To prepare hard sauce: Cream butter and sugar, then add evaporated milk. Beat until smooth and creamy.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Karen Fritz And Franklin Miller

Karen Louise Fritz became the bride of Franklin Thomas Miller in a double ring ceremony solemnized in the First United Methodist Church, Warren, December 11, 1971 at 2:30 p.m.

The Rev. Jack E. Spencer officiated at the candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Karl J. Fritz, 7 Ditmar street, North Warren, Pennsylvania. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Franklin Miller, RD 5, Ashland, Ohio, and the late Franklin Miller.

William R. Brocklebank played traditional wedding music for the ceremony. The church was decorated with white mums and red carnations, accented with red poinsettias.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was dressed in a gown of white velvet in an "A" silhouette. Venice lace in a daisy pattern formed the molded empire bodice, designed with long narrow sleeves and a crown collar. A wide border of the lace formed the scalloped hem on the floor length skirt.

A Victorian bandeau of the Venice lace daisies held the chapel length mantilla of illusion, encircled with the daisy florettes.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white bridal roses and miniature carnations accented with holly foliage.

The matron of honor was Kathy Fritz, a sister of the bride. Wendy Fritz, another sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. They were dressed in Nile green chiffon over taffeta floor length gowns, with emerald green velvet empire bodices. Daisy lace formed a bib effect on the bodices, circled the high collars and formed the wide cuffs on the long bishop sleeves. Butterfly veils were caught to velvet bowed bandeaus accented with Venice braid.

Each attendant carried a bouquet of red carnations and holly, centered with pink sweetheart roses.

Best man was D. Zane Cellar, Ashland, Ohio. Thomas Lynch,

The couple is now at home at 124 Harrison avenue, Lima, Ohio.

The bride is a graduate of Warren Area High School, and Ohio Northern University.

The bridegroom graduated from Crestview High School and Ohio Northern University, where he was a member of Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity.

A rehearsal dinner for the bridal party was given at the Penn Laurel Motel by the bridegroom's mother. Other pre-nuptial affairs included a shower, given by the bride's sisters, Kathy and Wendy Fritz.

The matron of honor was Jeanne English. She wore an aqua and white empire style floor length gown, and carried a nosegay of aqua and white flowers.

Best man was Willard Archer. Dale Morse, a brother of the bridegroom, was usher.

Ham And Pineapple A Good Holiday Entree

JUGGED PINEAPPLE HAM
elegant for Holiday entertaining

Ham, honored for its versatility, sparkles with a topping of pineapple in this new holiday entree. The no-fuss glaze is flavored subtly with spicy overtones. The wine and spice mellow with the juicy pineapple adding a piquant touch to the succulent ham. The simplicity of this recipe belies its elegance. It would be the perfect choice for a special occasion dinner, especially if you choose buffet service. It takes little time away from your guests and it waits well for latecomers and second portions.

Slice the ham into thick, even wedges. Top each serving with a spoonful of the elegant pineapple glaze. The pineapple mixture creates a bright garnish on each plate indicative of the enjoyment to come.

JUGGED PINEAPPLE HAM
5-lb. ham, canned
1 can (1 lb., 4-oz.) crushed pineapple
1/3 cup port wine
1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
1/2 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice

Remove ham from can; wipe off gelatin. Place in a shallow roasting pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 1 1/2 hours or until meat thermometer registers 140 degrees internal.

Meanwhile drain pineapple well. Combine with port, brown sugar and pumpkin pie spice. Remove ham from oven one-half hour before done. Spoon pineapple glaze mixture over top. Return to oven and cook one-half hour longer. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Monday's

TV Highlights

Old Doc Adams (Milburn Stone) is making noises like an outraged male chauvinist now that a lady doctor has answered his ad for a temporary replacement on Gunsmoke at 8:00 p.m. on WBEN, WFBG and WSEE.

Laurence Harvey and Sarah Miles star in "The Ceremony," an action-adventure drama on NBC Monday Night at the Movies on WGR, WJAC and WICU at 9:00 p.m. The drama concerns the escape from jail of a man sentenced to die for a murder committed during a bank holdup.

Guest-star Joe Namath, quarterback of pro-football's New York Jets, turns comedian and is joined by cameo guests Petula Clark, Fannie Flagg, Charo (Mrs. Xavier Cugat), and Burt Mustin and Queenie Smith on Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In at 8:00 p.m. on WGR, WJAC and WICU. Namath goes the comedy route as the husband of Gladys Ormphy (Ruth Buzzi).

Tonight's episode of My Three Sons concludes a two-parter with Fred MacMurray playing a dual role of Steve and his Scottish cousin Fergus. In this episode, an unlikely romance blossoms between the Scottish Lord and cocktail waitress. The program will be seen at 10:00 p.m. on WBEN, WFBG and WSEE.

As We Approach The Holiday Season:

Throughout history our Nation has set an example, offering hope to our people and all the people of the world. More than ever, this is a time when we, as individuals, need to stand firm in what is best for the common good. Let us all start the New Year with the resolution to give our thoughts and energies in continuing the heritage passed on to us by the great Americans who came before us and established a wonderful nation in which to live. To you, your families and loved ones "May your Christmas be a merry one and your New Year filled with love and good health."
